

PROCUREMENT INSIGHT NETWORK – COMMUNITY GUIDELINES

At Procurement Insight Network (PIN), our mission is to bring together a community of professionals who believe in the power of procurement, together. We want a productive, engaged, and forward-thinking community that can welcome new ideas, improve existing processes, and foster collaboration between groups and organizations that might not otherwise cross paths. We gain strength from welcoming a diverse group of members, and actively seek participation from those who bring new experiences and perspective.

Procurement Insight Network Eligibility Requirements:

- All members of PIN must be current or former public, education, or non-profit procurement professionals
- All members must at the time of consideration continue to show a professional interest in connecting to and building the procurement community
- All members agree to the PIN Community Guidelines below:

Community Guidelines:

- Our goal is to create a group of professional procurement leaders with the sole purpose of sharing insights and experiences in an effort to improve public procurement.
- The Procurement Insight Network is a community of courteous and respectful professionals. All members are encouraged to treat each other with kindness in person and online.
- All members must be tolerant towards others' viewpoints; we encourage individuals to respectfully disagree when opinions do not align.
- Use of PIN events or contact lists for sales and sales related activities, mass mailings of commercial materials, or to gather email addresses is prohibited and may result in removal from the PIN.
- PIN membership and activity will be moderated by its co-chairs and the Procurated team. Our policy is to keep intervention to a minimum and let conversation amongst PIN members flow and happen organically.
- While sponsored by Procurated, PIN is intended to function independently and was created for the procurement community, by the procurement community.
